

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

FOREWORD

THERE are in the Department of Fine Arts separate sections for each of the twelve foreign nations officially represented in the Department, an United States section and an International Section.

In the International Section are shown works by artists of foreign nations not represented by Commissioners of Fine Arts or by National Committees. The International Section occupies Gallery One Hundred and Eight (in the Palace of Fine Arts) and Galleries One Hundred and Twenty-one to One Hundred and Forty-three (in the Annex).

The Loan Collection comprises a selection of especially interesting works from institutions and private collections arranged for the purpose of outlining historically the derivation of the technical methods of contemporary artists. The Loan Collection is found in Galleries Sixty-one, Sixty-two, Sixty-three, Ninety-one and Ninety-two (Palace of Fine Arts).

The United States Historical Section presents the development of painting and sculpture in this country. Galleries Fifty-eight, Fifty-nine, Sixty and Sixty-four (Palace of Fine Arts) contain this section.

A collection of photographs of mural paintings and sculpture, the works themselves being for various reasons unavailable for exhibition, is installed in Gallery Twenty-seven and on the B wall of Gallery Twenty-eight.

Blackburn, Jonathan B.

Born Connecticut about 1700. It is known that he was painting portraits in Boston from 1750 to 1765, after which date there is no information about him. It is supposed that he left Boston because he felt that he was being superseded by Copley, who is said to have been his pupil. A description of fifty-three portraits attributed to Blackburn is given in the Proceedings of the Mass. Historical Society for 1878 and 1879.

Sharples, James.

Born about 1750. His special fame consists in the fact that George Washington sat to him in 1796. The profile portrait that he made of him had so great a reputation it is said his wife and daughter made copies of it to supply the demand. He exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1779 and 1785. He came to New York in 1796 and his portraits in pastel and miniature became very popular. He died in New York in 1811.

Blum, Robert F.

Born Cincinnati, 1857; died, 1903. At the age of sixteen he entered a lithographic establishment, but soon came to New York and gave a number of years to illustrative work. From 1880 to 1889 he made several trips abroad. In 1890 he went to Japan, commissioned by the Scribners to work conjointly with Sir Edwin Arnold. In the meantime his paintings had brought recognition and he was awarded bronze, silver and gold medals. The "Bead Stringers," a Venetian subject, occasioned his election as associate member of the Academy of Design, and "The Ameya" brought him into full membership. Upon his return from Japan in the fall of 1892, after writing and illustrating articles on Japan, and completing several easel pictures, Mr. Blum made an entirely new departure, taking up mural decoration.

Eckstein, John.

He was a portrait painter, a modeler in clay, and an engraver of portraits executed in a somewhat curious stipple manner. His name appears in the Philadelphia directories of 1796-97 as "limner and statuary," and again in 1805-06; from 1811 to 1816 his occupation is given as "engraver," and at intervals in this period he appears as "a merchant." He was painting and engraving as late as 1822.

St. Memin, Charles B. J. Fevret de.

Born Dijon, France, Mar. 12, 1770; died there June 23, 1852. Came to Canada in 1793, and soon after to New York. He introduced the engraving of portraits by means of the "physionotrace," a machine invented by Edme Quedenay of Paris. St. Memin made some improvements upon this device, and with it he made on a tinted paper a profile a little less than life size; this he finished by hand with crayons directly from the sitter. Taking this finished crayon drawing as a guide, he used a pantograph of special design to reduce the profile, so that it would go inside a circle of about two inches in diameter, faintly scratching the reduced drawing directly on the copperplate. This copper was now etched and finished in aquatint, assisted by the roulette. These portraits became very popular, and St. Memin, traveling from north to south over the country, produced about 800 small plates. He returned to France in 1810, but came back to the United States two years later and remained until 1814. He then settled permanently in
